. New York, June 16 .- Six hundred persons-men, women and children-at a conservative estimate, met death yesterday by the burning, beaching and sinking of the big three-decker excursion steamer General Slocum, which took fire in the East river near the entrance to Long Island sound, while on her way to a Sound resort with more than a thousand excursionists-the Sunday school pupils of St. Mark's German Lutheran church, their relatives and friends.

At 1 o'clock this morning, according to a statement issued by Coroner O'Gorman, 483 bodies had been recovered from the destroyed vessel, burned to death or drowned, and found on the shores to which they had been washed, or picked up in the river, to which they had jumped or fallen from the burning vessel.

Tugs are arriving hourly with bodies from North Brother island.

more than 600 persons, the majority of whom were weman and children, were burned to death or drowned by jumping overboard or by being thrown into he whirlpools by the lurching of the essel and the frantic rush of the anti-stricken passengers.

Five Hundred Bodies Recovered.

Approximately 500 bodies have been the constantly grew, and not the least dramatic incidents of the catastrophe were the efforts of the people on these boats to rescue those who had jumped overboard from the burning vessel. Men the vessel, which they say is choked ith the remains of human bodies, hile the bodies of scores who leaped were thrown into the river have of been recovered.

were between 1,500 and 2,500 persous on hoard the General Slocum when she left the pier at Third street, East river, though the Knickerbooker Steamship company, which owns the Slocum, officially states that the number of passengers was $37, that being only one-third of the vessel's capacity. It is thought, however, that there were several bundred children in arms, for whom fares are not usually charged on these trips, on board.

The scene on the decks of the steamer was one of merrymaking, customary on such occasions. The mass of flags fluttered in the June breezes, the bands were playing and the children were singing, dancing and waving handkerchiefs and flags in answer to the salutations of those on shore or from passing steamers. At the extreme eastern and of Randall's island, at One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street, there is a stretch of water known as the Sunken Meadows.

Fire Broke Out.

At this point, just as crowds were watching the gaily-decorated steamer from the shore, the General Slocum took fire, and as the age of the vessel —she was built in 1831—had resulted in the Crow of the Fidelity, were unable to recew of the Fidelity were unable to release the bodies without further mutitating them, and arrangements were made to hoist the hatchway with the bodies to it to the deck of the Fidelity. Among the boats that hurried to the succor of the stricken passengers were several lugs of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad company, the auxiliary catboat Easy Times, the health department tug Franklin Edson and the charities department steamer Massasoit. These, with a swam of rowboats manned by willing bands, approached as near the blazing wessel as was possible, and rescued scores of people. The Franklin Edson went so close to the burning steamer that her own paint was scorehed. The crew of the Lug however, stuck brave-in the row of the trips with the bodies to it to the deck of the Fidelity. Among the boats that hurried to the succor of the stricken passengers were several tugs of the New York Centra Stakelberg's purpose, the correspondent of the Associated Press learns, is manily intended to discourage the landing of a fourth Japanese army, which the authorities have reason to believe is planned, on the west coast of the Liao Tung peninsuka near New Chuang, whence it could co-operate with Gen-eral Kuroki's advance upon Liao Tung. The Japanese failure to follow up the bombardment of the Kai Chou and Suen Chen coast by a disembarkation is believed to be in consequence to the development of Stakelberg's position.

Tokio, June 15, 6 p. m.—It is reported here that the Japanese protected cruiser Nitaka engaged the Russian Vladivostok squadron off Tsu island, in the straits between Korea and Japan. This report, however, lacks confirmation.
